Pre-registrants now require provisional registration	06 July 2007
From 1 July 2007, under the Health Professions Registration Act 2005, pre-registrants will require provisional registration to undertake supervised practice (pre-registrant training hours) for initial general registration. There are no changes to the requirements for general registration. Once granted provisional registration, pre-registrants will be referred to as 'Provisionally registered pharmacists' however, there is no change to the level of responsibility or accountability associated with supervised practice which previously existed for pre-registrants undertaking clinical training under the Pharmacy Practice Act 2004. A certificate of provisional registration will be provided to all applicants granted provisional registration. Preceptors are reminded to check for valid certificates.
